Sunday will mark the high tide of the Christian Endeavor Union of North Dakota which is holding its annual convention at the Presbyterian church. There will be services morning, afternoon and evening. Rev. E. P. Gates, of Boston, Mass., general secretary of the organization, will be present. Mr. Gates is a speaker with a wide reputation and it is expected that he will be heard by large congregations. Rev. C. E. Hetzler, field secretary for West Virginia, another leader in Christian Endeavor work, will deliver the address at the Sunday evening service. The convention got under way last night with a good attendance. Greetings were extended on behalf of the city of Bismarck and response made. This morning the regular sessions of the society opened. The program of the morning included a C. A. school of methods with several speakers outlining programs for the local societies.

Outlines Social Work
Miss Margaret Bradt, of Fargo, outlined social activities she said might be pursued by the Christian Endeavor Societies with profit and pleasure. There are some people who believe that there is no pleasure to be had in a church society, she said, and she pointed to various passages in the old and new testaments. The old testament passages revealed that the people of Israel found time to be merry, she said, and their pleasures were as full and varied as those of today. She referred to the marriage feast related in the new testament which Christ attended. The new testament revealed, she said, that Christ always was mingling with people, that he taught, fellowship and urged people to be merry. She urged Christian Endeavor Societies to hold socials once a month, that once each year, the society should entertain the whole church, and that there should be an annual banquet and election of officers. She outlined various plans for conducting pleasurable events in the society, to increase the interest.

Rev. E. V. Headen, of the Presbyterian church of Wilton, talked upon the society; Mrs. Langer, of Bismarck, spoke of the missionary committee work; Rev. L. R. Johnson, of Bismarck, spoke on the "Tenth Legion"; Margaret Bradt, of Fargo, spoke on the subject, "Why a Junior Society in Your Church?"

Banquet Tonight
G. L. Hempstead presided at the afternoon service. Rev. C. E. Hetzler and others were on the program preceding the annual business meeting. An automobile ride late in the afternoon and a banquet at the Grand Pacific hotel at 7:30 o'clock. Governor Nestos spoke late today instead of at the banquet, because an engagement required him to leave the city at 7:30 o'clock.

Mrs. W. E. Butler, state president of the Christian Endeavor Society, presided at the opening meeting of the convention at 8 o'clock last evening. The meeting was opened with a song service led by Rev. C. E. Hetzler and was followed by the welcome address by Mayor Lenhart. Rev. H. C. Postlethwaite welcomed the delegates in behalf of the Ministerial Association and entertaining church. The response was given by Selma M. Bogan. Rev. Ward F. Boyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Jamestown, gave the main address of the evening on "Character Qualities of an Ideal Christian." Rev. Boyd took as his modern christian St. Paul and from this theme gave a most interesting talk. A social hour followed the meeting.

SUPREME COURT BANS 'GRUDGE CHARGES'

BEING STARTED BEFORE BAR BOARD

The supreme court has come to the aid of lawyers with enemies. By adopting a new rule the court expects to stop promiscuous demand for disbarment cases and investigations of conduct of lawyers, which may have had their inception in a personal grudge.

Under the interpretation of law by the bar board all charges for disbarment of attorneys have been investigated. The board held it was required to investigate any case presented. Many of the cases, it has been found, were started by enemies of the lawyers and had no real merit. Much expense was involved in the investigation.

MAN KILLER OF SOUTHWEST TOO SLOW ON DRAW

Bud Ballew, Noted Gunman, Is Killed by Police Chief in Texas City

TRIED TO EVADE THE LAW

Police Chief Says Bad Man Started to Draw Gun on Arrest But Was Too Slow

Wichita Falls, Texas, May 6.—Bud Ballew, man killer of the southwest, "cashed in" here yesterday when Police Chief J. W. McCormick beat him to his holster and sent five .38 caliber steel-jacketed bullets crashing into his body as he stood in an Ohio street cafe.

Bud's prowess in unlimbering his "six gun" when trouble threatened had saved him in numerous border squabbles. It was only a short way out when the police chief, firing from his hip, was master of the situation. The body of Ballew, a former deputy under Sheriff Dugl Garrett at Ardmore, Okla., was sent to Ardmore by airplane. Garrett, who arrived with the aerial hearse, and Ballew's son, accompanied the body to Ardmore where burial arrangements will be made.

Attorneys for McCormick waived an examining trial and his bond was set at $10,000. Numerous citizens volunteered to sign the bond and 15 names were fixed and McCormick was released.

Developments brought out at the court house alleged that McCormick had gone to a cafe with Chief of Detectives Miller in response to a call that a disturbance was in progress. He found Ballew standing near the bar, it was stated. "I walked up to Ballew," said Chief McCormick, "and said 'Bud, you are under arrest; give me your gun.' He didn't make a move, and I said, 'Put up your hands and I will get it myself.'"

"He turned half way around and said, 'You're just out of luck.' Then he reached for his gun on his left side. I beat him to it and shot." "Bud Ballew was murdered, I am satisfied of that. Five shots and all from the back. He did not have a chance," said Garrett. "No man ever had a truer friend than Bud Ballew was to me. He saved my life on numerous occasions, and I only wish that it had been in my power to save his."

FIRST VICTIM OF CHIEF.

Wichita Falls, Tex., May 6.—Bud Ballew, former deputy sheriff of Ardmore, Okla., who was killed here yesterday by Police Chief J. W. McCormick, was the first man to die at McCormick's hand. Reports that Ballew's slayer had previously killed a number of men were denied today by the chief and by those here who knew his personal history.

All four of the bullets that struck Ballew's body entered from the front. The hole in the back of Ballew's head was caused by a bullet emerging. Witnesses agreed that Ballew faced his slayer throughout the shooting.

RUSSIANS ASK BILLIONS GOLD; CRISIS AT HAND

Spokesman for Italians Says Economic Conference Faces Critical Period

ALLIES DON'T AGREE

Differences Among Them Over Reply to Russians Is a Stumbling Block

Genoa, May 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Russia's reply to the allied memorandum expected to be ready Sunday or Monday and will be a distinctly conciliatory document, not intended to break off negotiations, Foreign Minister Tschitserin said today. It will, however, he declared, firmly state Russia's inability to comply with the terms offered.

Genoa, May 6.—(By the Associated Press)—The most critical stage of the international economic conference was reached today arising through the differences in the ranks of allied delegates over the memorandum to Russia and to the attitude of the Russians themselves, it was declared this afternoon by an official Italian spokesman.

"This crisis," he said, "is more grave than the one the conference sustained after the signing of the Russo-German treaty at Rapallo on Easter Sunday. The conference between Foreign Minister Schanger of Italy and Japs Jaspars of Belgium, however, created a good impression. There are difficulties but they are not insurmountable."

"The Russians on the other hand created a distinctly bad impression at the conference at Villa de Albertis with Sir Evans and Prime Minister Lloyd George of Great Britain yesterday evening. They asked billions and billions of gold francs and they do not ask them in the form of credit with which they can buy goods but in cash—in gold."

"Many states report increased activity along all lines," the secretary said. "The west, north central districts," he continued, "the states of Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, South Dakota, North Dakota, Kansas and Oklahoma are all entering upon an era of considerable activity. In some of these sections, especially North Dakota, there is an actual shortage of experienced farm help."

MISSOURI SLOPE GETS LARGEST SHARE OF GENERAL RAINFALL

While the rain interfered somewhat with auto traffic the roads will be greatly benefited thereby. Early sown grains have stood very satisfactorily during the past ten days of cool cloudy weather and this rain will prove of immense value to crops of all kinds. While crops are somewhat backward the indications were never more favorable, especially in the central and western parts of the state. Reports that there was a cloudburst at Wilton proved to be untrue upon investigation, the bureau reported.

TEXANS AVENGE GIRL'S MURDER BY LYNCHINGS

Two Negroes Are Burned While Denying Guilt of Crime of Which They Were Accused

TAKE THEM FROM JAIL

Grandfather of Slain Girl Witnesses Attack of Mob Upon The Negroes

Kervin, Tex., May 6 (By the Associated Press)—Three negroes were burned to death at the same stake here at 5 o'clock this morning by a mob of 500 determined men following their alleged implication in the criminal assault and murder of 17-year-old Ula Awsley, white girl, whose mutilated body was found near here Thursday night.

"Snap" Curry, the first negro burned, was taken from the custody of Freestone county officers earlier in the night as he was being conveyed from Wortham to some point west. It is alleged that he confessed to the mob he had assaulted and murdered the girl and that in his confession he implicated two other negroes, J. P. Varney and Mose Jones.

The mob took the two other negroes from the jail and all three were then rushed to Kervin, the home of the dead girl and an iron stake driven into the ground on a small square in the heart of the town. Wood was accumulated and saturated with oil.

Two Deny Guilt
Curry was burned first, then Varney and Jones. There was some delay in burning the last two as they steadfastly maintained their innocence. Third degree methods failed to bring a confession and they were finally tossed into the flames on the strength of Curry's testimony. After the third negro had been burned all three bodies were piled together and a mass of fuel and oil flung over them. This was ignited and early today the flames were still burning fiercely.

All three negroes were employed on the farm of J. T. King, prominent farmer of the community, and grandfather of the dead girl with whom she lived, both parents being dead. Mr. King was present at the cremation and the mob leaders are said to have obtained his approval before lighting the torches. The lynchings were carried out deliberately. There was no discharge of firearms. It was reported, however, that the negroes were mutilated before being tied to the stake. With the exception of a few shouts and the screams of the condemned men there was little to disturb the early morning quiet of the backwoods community.

Kervin is a town of about 500 inhabitants, about 80 miles north of Dallas. Miss Awsley was riding her horse home from school which she attended several miles from Kervin late Thursday when she was attacked.

PROFESSOR IS FOUND KILLED

Marshal of University of South Carolina Also Slain

Columbia, S. C. May 6.—Professor M. Goode Holmes, of the University of South Carolina, and Ben Hale, the university marshal, were found shot to death today in the office of the treasurer of the university.

The bodies of the two were found by W. T. Holland, a law student in the university, who passing the de-Cassius building heard shots and entered the treasurer's office. He reported that a pistol lay beside the marshal. Prof. Holmes was a member of the school of engineering faculty.

Coroner Scott after a preliminary examination said the indications were that Hale had shot Holmes and then taken his own life, probably in a fit of temporary insanity.

BRIEFS ORDERED ON METHOD USED IN VALUATIONS

The state railroad commission has directed parties in the Bismarck Water Supply Company suit to submit briefs with especial reference to the method of valuation. It is expected that the commission will give weight to one of the most important utility questions before it—whether the North Dakota law prescribes valuations must be on the original cost basis or upon reproduction value. The railroad commission has adopted the historical original cost system of valuation, in which the value of a utility is fixed at the original cost of the various items of material and labor entering into it. The reproduction method, used in many states, is to take the cost of reproducing a plant at a given time, or basing prices on a five or ten-year average.

FORECAST FOR THE NEXT WEEK

STATE A. C. TO BROADCAST NEWS BY RADIO

Transmitting Station Will Be Installed This Summer, Says Sigmund Larson

TO HAVE 250 MILE RANGE

General Information of Interest, Especially To Farmers, Will Be Sent Every Morning

Fargo, N. D., May 5.—A radio transmitting station will be installed at the State Agricultural College here this summer for broadcasting news and market reports, Sigmund Larson, of the agricultural college physics department told the state science academy convention here today. It will have a range of 250 miles using dots and dashes, or 100 for telephone, he added. He prophesied that within a few years the radio receiving set will be as essential a part of farm life as the ordinary telephone and automobile now are.

Concerning the proposed station he said:

"What can be done with short waves will be determined this coming summer when the agricultural college station will be put in operation. This station is planned to reach at least one hundred miles with radio telephone and about 250 miles with code transmission.

"General information of interest especially to the farmers of the state will be transmitted every morning first by telephone and then repeated by code. There are probably about fifty receiving stations in the eastern part of the state capable of receiving messages from the Agricultural College. With the establishment of a regular, daily transmitting schedule the number of receiving stations will grow rapidly.

"Receiving equipment for places not more than 25 miles from the Agricultural College would cost about $60—for places further away about $125. With the same equipment, music and speeches broadcasted by the big stations in New York City, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Detroit, Mich.; Chicago, Ill., and Denver, Colo., could be heard occasionally in summer and almost every evening in winter.

"Pick Up Time Signals

"Time signals from Annapolis, Md., at 11 a. m. and 9 p. m. and from San Diego, Cal., at 2 p. m. and news from Annapolis, Md., at 9 p. m. could be picked up on the same set of instruments. Government stations at Rock Springs, Wyo., and North Platte, Neb., transmit reports of Chicago, Kansas City and Omaha markets in code several times throughout the day but receipt of messages from these stations has been found very difficult and uncertain at the agricultural college. The states of Kansas, Nebraska, Wisconsin and Minnesota have for some time been transmitting market and weather reports to the farmers through the state universities. The scope of this kind of wireless service is constantly widening. The University of Wisconsin is planning a lecture course by radio. During a recent test conducted by the Westinghouse station at Pittsburgh, Pa., it was found that about 400,000 people listened to a speech delivered there.

"Through a powerful transmitting station in the nation's capitol the speeches of the president and the most important officials could be broadcast and be heard by every one in the United States who had access to a radio receiver. The possibilities are immense, and we are now in the very beginning of its development. Within a few years the radio receiving station will be as essential a part of farm life as the ordinary telephone and the automobile."

KING AND QUEEN GET NEEDED REST

Windsor, England, May 5.—King George and Queen Mary both are said to have needed the rest they are expected to get while here. Not only did the wedding of Princess Mary mean a great deal of work for them, but they have been under a considerable strain while the Prince of Wales was in India. Affairs nearer home have also caused them concern. Queen Mary, always solicitous for the health of her family, is additionally anxious that the King should secure as complete a rest as possible now, because the coming summer is full of engagements which will tax his strength pretty considerably.

Absence from church was a crime in the seventeenth century.

DEATH MYSTERY

Gertrude Hanna, above, was found dead in a vacant parsonage at Hoopes-ton, Ill. John B. Wyman, farmer, told authorities investigating the mystery of her death that he had been the girl's sweetheart. She was about to become a mother.

WATER HEARING IS CONCLUDED BY COMMISSION

City and Water Company Attorneys Are to Submit Briefs On The Case

A CLASH IN TESTIMONY

The water hearing was concluded before the state railroad commission late yesterday afternoon, both the city and the water company presenting evidence toward the conclusion of the case.

The last part of the hearing was marked by an attack by the water company attorneys upon the accuracy of the figures of S. J. Hunt, employed by the city in the case, who was referred to as the "335-a-day-and-expense-expert."

Mr. Hunt held there was considerable leakage of water which was due to poor equipment. In estimating this loss of water unaccounted for he said there was 1,833,900 gallons of water used at the penitentiary and hospital. (Manager Caulfield of the water company was called to the stand after recess, stating that during the noon hour he examined the books and that the books showed that there had been 14,346,045 gallons of water used by these two consumers during the period. He said Mr. Hunt had made a mistake of over 12,000,000 gallons in this item and testified Mr. Hunt had access to the company's books.

Mr. Caulfield testified that there appeared to be other discrepancies which he did not have time to look up.

Question of Expenses
The question of expenses of the water company were brought up by the city when it put on the stand George Doorley. He testified that he had been superintendent, did practically all the work now done by the superintendent and manager, that the manager received no salary, and that there was a clerk receiving $60 a month. Water company officials testified that the books showed a salary of $100 per month and the clerk $30 a month during the period as shown by the books of the company.

R. F. Jager, fire chief, was called to the stand, to testify to the city's contention of inadequate fire pressure.

Regarding Fire Pressure
The Tribune fire of January 21, 1920, was discussed at length. Doorley testified that the water pressure was inadequate at this fire.

Thomas H. Poole, for the company, was put on the stand to answer this contention. He exhibited photographs he said were taken at the time of the fire because of criticism. These photographs showed sprays of water at couplings of the hose and other leaks. His contention was that lack of pressure was in part caused by the leaks in the hose. He also testified that there was twice as much hose used for the seven streams of water as is provided in the Board of Fire Underwriters regulations. He exhibited photographs showing hose coiled and interlocked and said that this coiling of hose reduced the effectiveness of the streams of water and was responsible in part for lack of pressure. He also testified that part of the hose used was condemned as ineffective and later discarded.

Mr. Doorley was called by the city and shown the photographs. He maintained his original contention and testified that the leaks would not effect the hydrant stream and in his opinion the leaks in the hose and at the couplings showed that there was lack of fire pressure that there was sufficient pressure the hose would have burst.

Difference on Valuation.
There also was sharp difference of opinion expressed by T. R. Atkinson, city engineer, on his valuation and

LIFE HISTORY OF RUST TOLD

Black Stem Rust Only Thrives Where The Barberry Bush Is

Fargo, N. D., May 5.—No scientist has ever been able to find that black stem rust could continue to exist if the barberry were disposed of, Dean H. L. Bolley, pathologist of the North Dakota Agricultural College, declared today before the state academy of science.

He told his hearers the life history of the rust that circles the wheat stems and chokes off the nourishment from the grains as they are rounding into maturity.

He told how the spores in the black rust stage lie about all winter on the straw where they grow or elsewhere, how they blow about in the spring and die wherever they may alight excepting only on the leaves of the barberry bush. The spores are very delicate organisms, he said, and can live only on these. Here they develop into the spores of what is known as stem or red rust. This is harder and grows on grasses and grain. The wind takes them and their travels are limited only by the range of the wind. Scientists have gone thousands of feet into the air in planes and have found the spores there.

WILL REVIEW CAHILL CASE

The contentions of J. I. Cahill that he was illegally removed from the board of administration will be reviewed by the court May 13.

Pay Bills on May 10th

One good way in which every man and woman in Bismarck can help to promote the prosperity of the community is to pay bills promptly when due.

When you make charge purchases at a local store remember that this is a courtesy extended to you by the merchant and that the bills fall due on the first of the month following—payable not later than the 10th.

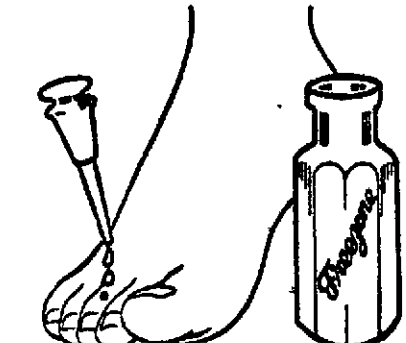

It is not fair to ask a merchant to sell you goods on a cash basis and then make him wait longer than thirty days for his money. Put yourself in the merchant's place and you will quickly realize how necessary it is to promptly collect outstanding obligations.

A big help to the prompt payment of bills is to open a checking account at this strong bank so that you can pay by check. Try it!

N. D. DRAINAGE AND POOR SOILS ARE DISCUSSED

These Two Subjects Are Talked By Members of State Academy of Science

Fargo, N. D., May 6.—Practically a fifth of North Dakota is without definite drainage into any river, Edwin F. Chandler, professor of civil engineering at the University of North Dakota, told members of the State Academy of Science here today. This amount of territory, which totals a little less than 15,000 square miles, drains into lakes, ponds and alkali pools and evaporates. In some places the land is so level that only the most accurate surveying would indicate which way the waters would run and which drainage system of the state would finally receive any surplus should the rainfall in North Dakota reach a stage where the lakes and pools would be filled to capacity and seek an outlet.

North Dakota, according to Prof. Chandler divides its drainage waters almost equally between the Gulf of Mexico and Hudson Bay. The state as a whole has about 70,000 square miles of territory. For the purposes of the present statistics, every one of these square miles has been turned into one or the other of the drainage territories of the different streams. Of the total, 57 per cent, or 39,940 drain into the Gulf of Mexico by way of the Missouri and the Mississippi. The Hudson bay received the waters from about 30,760 square miles.

Good for Grazing, Forestation.
There are some soils in the state so poor that they can only be used for grazing or for growing forests, said H. L. Walster, of the agricultural college, and the sooner these are definitely mapped out and their limitations learned, the better it will be indicated. Mr. Walster spoke of the soils of McHenry county. He said that there are three families of soils there which should be used only for grazing and forestation. They are the Sioux soils, the Valentine sand and fine sand soils and the Dune sands. The Dune sands are very much subject of drifting and the Valentine soils also drift in a lesser degree. All three families are especially "drouthy" and unfit for cultivation when they are underlaid by gravel.

THANKFUL FOR A LITTLE CHILD

Mrs. Mertz Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Kutztown, Pa.—"I wish every woman who wants children would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has done so much for me. My baby is almost a year old now and is the picture of health. She walked at eleven months and is trying to use her little tongue. She can say some words like nice, I am sending you her picture. I shall be thankful as long as I live that I found such a wonderful medicine for my troubles."—Mrs. CHARLES A. MERTZ, Kutztown, Pa.

Many cases of childlessness are curable. Perhaps yours may be. Why be discouraged until you have given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a faithful trial?

Spoken and written recommendations from thousands of women who have found health and happiness from its use have come to us. We only tell you what they say and what they believe.

We believe that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so well adapted to the conditions which might cause your trouble that good will come to you by its use.

Merit is the foundation of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has behind it a record of nearly fifty years.

RADIO STATION AT AG. COLLEGE

Fargo, May 6.—That a radio transmitting station will be installed at the North Dakota Agricultural college this summer for broadcasting news and market reports was the information that was made public by Sigmund Lieberman, of the college physics department, in his address before the North Dakota Academy of Science, which opened a two-days session in the physics lecture room at the Agricultural College.

FARGO'S RATE FIGHT UP MAY 10

Alleged Discrimination To Be Given Hearing

Fargo, May 6.—Fargo's demand for freight rate adjustments to place this city on an equal basis with other regional distributing centers of the central states, will come up for a formal hearing before the Western Trunk Line association at Chicago on Wednesday, May 10, it was announced today in a telegram from E. B. Boyd, chairman of the Western Trunk Line committee.

Fargo will be represented at this hearing by H. E. Reynolds, chairman of the traffic committee of the Fargo Commercial club; N. E. Williams, traffic commissioner of the club, and possibly other members of the traffic committee.

The Western Trunk Line association is an organization of all the railroads operating west of Chicago, and the Fargo traffic committee has been assured that the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads will participate with competent authority in this conference.

This addition traffic commissioners or other representatives will be present to participate in the conference from Chicago, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Kansas City, Omaha, Peoria, Sioux City, the twin cities and Duluth, and from practically all distributing centers of the central west.

"This is going to be one of the biggest and most important hearings that has been held by the Western Trunk Line association in years," said Mr. Reynolds. Question of policy, breaking down old precedents that have been adhered to for years, will be decided at this conference.

"It involves the question of whether Fargo is to be recognized as a distributing center and receive the freight rates to which the city is entitled."

HAIL WARRANT PAYMENTS ARE NOW HASTENED

The deal consummated by the state administration whereby farmers are enabled to sell hail warrants at a small discount will result in all 1921 hail warrants being paid during the present year, it is stated at the office of the state treasurer.

Under terms of the deal, the Minnesota Loan and Trust company waived the right of payment of warrants in order of call. As $1,600,000 of the total amount of $3,500,000 of warrants have been purchased by that company, the effect is to advance by several months payments to farmers who did not sell their warrants to the trust company.

The state treasurer has called about $1,250,000 of 1921 hail warrants. It is estimated that half of these are held by the Minnesota Loan and Trust company and were not presented for payment, the actual amount of cash on hand for payment of warrants being about half the total amount called.

Warrants now are being purchased under the deal consummated by the administration at 99 1/2 and par will be paid after June 1.

PLAN WILTON CHURCH

Wilton, May 6.—The building committee of the Presbyterian church appointed at the annual meeting, met recently to discuss ways and means for the erection of a new house of worship. Plans were submitted for a commodious building to be used for community purposes. It was the unanimous decision of the committee that it would not be possible to attempt the entire building at this time, but if conditions improve the basement will possibly be finished. It was decided to wait until later on before any definite action would be taken.

QUEEN MARIE MAY DEFER HER TRIP TO U. S.

Was Offered Flattering Sum To Appear In American Scenario
As "Queen of Movies"

MARRIAGE AUGUST 16th

Sibiu (Hermannstadt), Transylvania, May 6.—Queen Marie of Rumania probably will be obliged to defer her long contemplated trip to the United States until next year. She had hoped to visit New York prior to the coronation of herself and King Ferdinand, which will take place here August 16, but the wedding of her second daughter, Marie, to King Alexander of Yugoslavia, early in June, will make it impossible. Then she has a number of official duties to make this year to European countries so that a voyage to America after the coronation in August is extremely improbable.

The popular Rumanian Queen desires to express her warm appreciation and thanks for the many invitations she has received from women's civic societies, other organizations and personal friends in the United States urging her to visit America this year. She has even had invitations from motion-picture concerns, one of which offered her a flattering sum to appear in an American scenario as "Queen of the Movies." She obviously had to decline these novel tenders.

The coronation ceremonies, which will take place at the head of the beautiful Transylvanian Alps, will be on a scale of lavishness and regal splendor hitherto unknown in the Balkans. A magnificent cathedral of Byzantine design, costing millions of dollars, has been especially erected in Sibiu for the crowning of Europe's most beautiful Queen and King Ferdinand. The Rumanian parliament has appropriated an immense sum for the event. Most of the reigning sovereigns and heads of state throughout Europe have been invited. It is hoped here President Harding will send someone to represent the United States.

King Ferdinand and Queen Marie began the throne just before the beginning of the world war, and the continuance of the struggle made it necessary to postpone the coronation from year to year. August 16, which has been finally chosen for the event, is the anniversary of Rumania's entry into the war.

Massive crowns of gold, surmounted by rare stones, have been made for the Rumanian rulers and the Queen has replaced all her precious jewels which were confiscated by the Bolsheviks early in the war by gems and jewelry of even greater beauty and worth. Her pearls alone are said to represent millions of francs.

MOSCOW NOW SEA OF MUD

Moscow, May 6.—The shielding blanket of the snow has left Moscow and revealed a city of mud and slush and unprepared, cratered pavements like a battlefield pock-marked by shell holes; and the city stands out in all its revolution-torn ugliness, drawn by discolored looking horses, careering from melting ice hillcock to slush areas, joggling their passengers like a lurching device in an amusement park. Here and there is a sleigh, a hopeless relic from the more charitable days of winter, drags painfully from bare pavement to slush oases with a load of wood.

Automobiles, which seem recklessly driven by hard-faced chauffeurs, splutter, chug and whirl past, throwing muddy water over pedestrian and trochey passenger alike.

To the stranger, Moscow seems to be the place designed as the Hades where all bad automobiles go when they die. There are a few good, new models but, for the most part, the towering cars, runabouts and lorries, which speed through Moscow's streets, are laden with roughly dressed, scraggly men or Red Army officers, some of a pre-1914 vintage, one lunged across from the scapheap, coughing bad gasoline and pouring out smoke barrages of oil fumes.

The sanitary condition of the city is almost unimaginable to western strangers. A report of the Moscow Soviet recently said there were millions of barrels of refuse and sewage in the dump yards, unable to be moved because of the transport shortage.

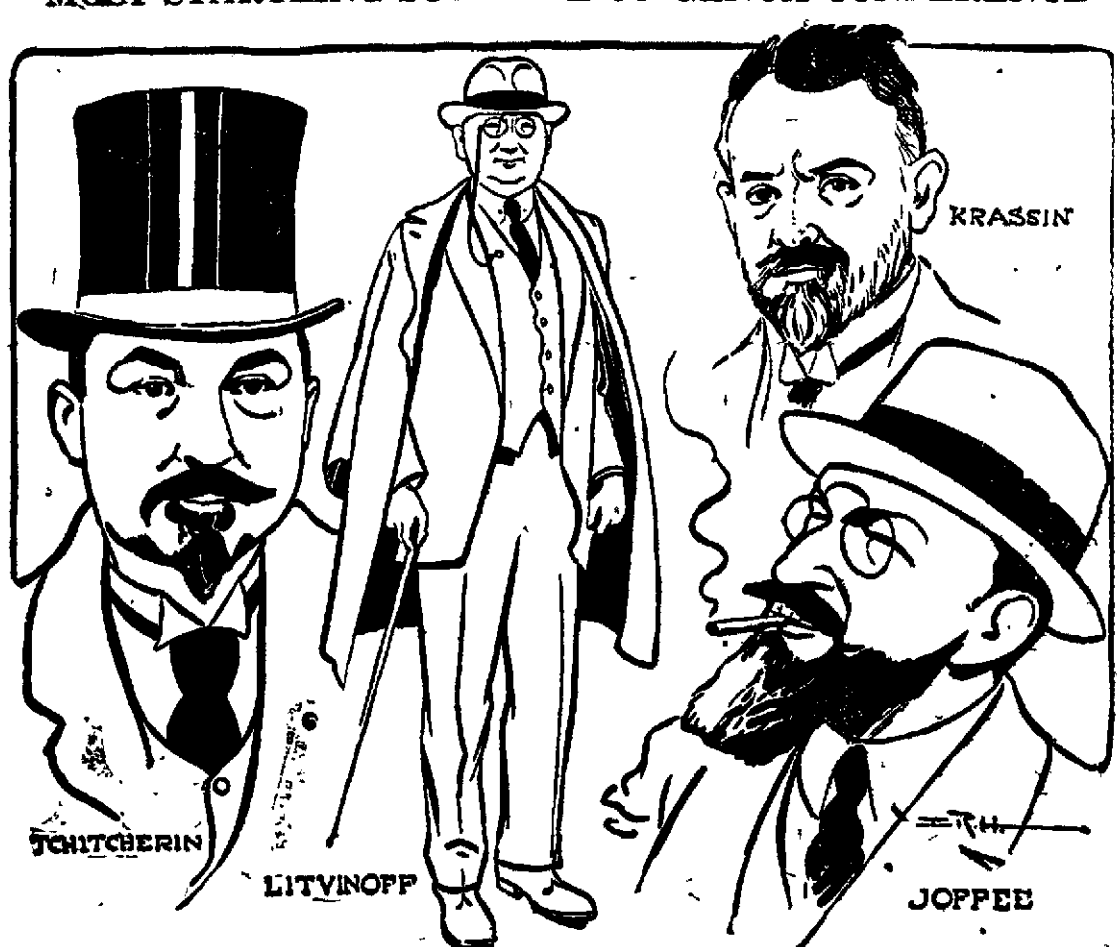

Less than 30 percent of Moscow's houses have complete sewage and running water facilities and many drain pipes are so blocked with the refuse of years that they are useless. Some efforts are to be made this coming summer toward sewage repair and, here and there, the city's dinginess is being relieved by a bit of paint as private shopkeepers touch up their new establishments.

MOST STARTLING SURPRISE OF GENOA CONFERENCE

FOUR BOLSHEVISTS AT GENOA CONFERENCE

By Harry N. Riekey
(Special Cable to NEA Service; Copyright, 1922, by NEA Service, Inc.)
Genoa, May 6.—The biggest shock of Genoa has not been alone the spectacular things the Russians have done—but what they look like.

World diplomats here expected to see wild-eyed men with long hair and matted whiskers, with knives in their teeth and parts in their boots. And they were shocked to find the Russians were not freaks at all.

When the Russian delegates first arrived in Genoa there were many jokes at their expense and a disposition in some quarters not to take them seriously. Now, needless to say, the attitude toward them has changed entirely. From the moment they announced their treaty with Germany they have shown diplomatic cleverness and have proved their right to be treated at least as equals in one of the greatest diplomatic games ever played in Europe.

They have occupied the center of the stage and the spotlight has never left them.

Fashionable Raiment
Far from being disheveled fanatics, the Russians in appearance rank well up toward the top of all delegations. Almost without exception they are well dressed, and on all formal occasions their attire is strictly proper to the last detail. The propaganda effect of this has been very great, for adherence to convention means much in European official circles.

In total quantity, whiskers among the Russians are much less than in many other delegations.

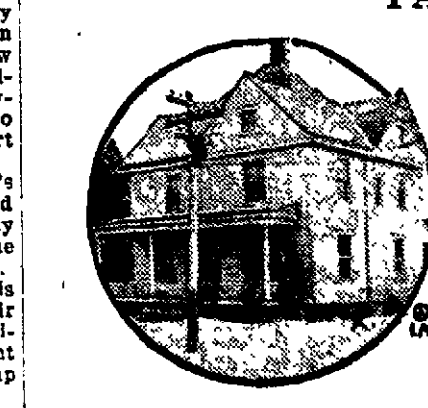

The five leaders of the Soviet delegation—Tchitcherine, Krassin, Litvinoff, Joffe and Rakonsky—are all men of the highest education. Their linguistic abilities are amazing. All speak Russian, German, French, Italian and English, and some several other languages. They not only speak these languages, but speak them correctly.

Tchitcherine a Bachelor
Tchitcherine's English is flawless. At the opening session he read his speech in Russian, and translated it into French, then into English and finally into Italian.

The five chief delegates are all about 50, and of distinguished appearance. Tchitcherine, a nobleman in the old regime, was in the czar's diplomatic service. He was educated in Russia and in Berlin and Paris and has a doctor of laws degree. He is one of the most powerful members of the Soviet government. Among the five delegates, Tchitcherine is not married. He is above average height, slightly stooped, wears a closely cropped mustache and imperial, and looks like a college professor.

Krassin for 25 years has been one of the leading electrical engineers in Europe. He was born in Siberia. While a prisoner there for political activity he helped build the Trans-Siberian railway. He was one of the original founders of the Bolshevik party.

VICTIM AND SCENE OF "PARSONAGE MURDER"

Miss Gertrude Hanna, pictured here, is the 25-year-old girl whose body, evidently hidden there by her murderer, was found in the basement of the vacant parsonage of the United Presbyterian church at Hoopston, Ill. Physicians say she was smothered or died from an overdose of some anesthetic. Miss Hanna, member of a Hoopston family, was formerly a choir singer there. Later she went to Chicago, where she was employed as a nurse and saleswoman. Returning home recently, she went for a stroll on March 31 and never was seen alive again. John C. Wyman, rich widower, retired farmer and church elder of Hoopston, has confessed, the police say, that he wronged Miss Hanna, but denies killing her. Photo shows also the parsonage in the basement of which the body was found.

An odorless powder is being manufactured by a German company which, it is claimed, will render wool mothproof.

In 1903 and has been active in it ever since. A tall man with a close cut iron gray beard, Krassin looks as little like a Red as Secretary Hughes.

Rakonsky's Career
Rakonsky, one of the most interesting of the group, was born in Bulgaria, and educated in Swiss, German and French universities, obtaining a bachelor of laws degree from the University of Paris.

He has been a Socialist since he was 15 years old, and has been expelled from Bulgaria, Germany and Russia for Socialist activity.

He was one of the leaders of the Russian revolution in 1905 and was jailed in Rumania for Bolshevism in 1917.

He was rescued by 35 Russian soldiers, who took him to Russia, where he became one of the Soviet leaders. Now Rakonsky is president of the Ukrainian Soviet Republic. He is short and stocky, with smooth face and a keen sense of humor. He is in charge of Soviet propaganda at Genoa—and he's a past master at the job.

Litvinoff, a college professor, taught many years in the Berlitz School of Languages in London. He is one of the most remarkable linguists in Europe, speaking practically all languages. He is of average physique and has neither mustache or beard.

Joffe is a lawyer of high standing having a doctor of laws degree from the University of Munich. His whiskers are white and luxuriant. Litvinoff and Joffe are Jews, but the other three are not, though there are several among the "subordinates" of the delegation.

Their ability to speak languages gives the Russians a great advantage at the Genoa conference. Another great advantage is the fact that, excepting the British, they come better prepared with documents and figures than the other delegations. They insist on taking time to answer proposals and questions, but when they answer, they back the answer up with such facts and figures that allied delegates are dazed. Some of the facts and figures won't stand analysis, but the allies are kept busy finding the weak spots.

Hardest Workers
The Russians, from Tchitcherine down, are hardest workers at the conference. They are at it night and day, holding conferences among themselves, with the allies and with the Germans, and the rest of the time searching records and preparing documents.

The amount and character of the propaganda they turn out is amazing. There is always something for the journalists at Russian headquarters, and always somebody there who can speak any language. The other day one of Rakonsky's assistants gave a statement to English, Spanish, French, German and Italian correspondents in succession, and each correspondent said his language was spoken perfectly.

One of the most interesting reactions to the Russians' personality is the almost universal belief among other delegates and journalists that, however mistaken they may be in their social and political ideas, they are sincere men, earnestly trying to accomplish the regeneration of Russia, along more advanced lines than ever before attempted in history.

If Russia succeeds in getting the full recognition she demands, it will be due in a great measure to the character and ability of the men sent here from Moscow.

INSANITY AS GROUND FOR DIVORCE?

In Recent Comparisons This
Wheat Showed Marked

Paris, May 6.—The bill introduced in the Chamber of Deputies by Andre Tardieu and Georges Almond making insanity a legal ground for divorce has met with considerable opposition. The bill provided that a husband or wife should be entitled to bring an action for divorce after the person to whom he or she was married had been detained for three years in a recognized lunatic asylum and if competent medical authorities declared the patient was mentally deranged beyond hope of recovery.

The measure is opposed on the ground that no physician is sufficiently infallible to be able to state that a case is hopeless beyond recovery. Confirmed opponents of all changes in the French divorce laws are drawing distressing pictures of the "incurable" patient recovering and returning to the bosom of his family to find his wife married again.

Andre Tardieu, one of the authors of the bill, was a member of the last cabinet of Premier Clemenceau and was French High Commissioner in America during the world war. Insanity was a ground for divorce in France 100 years ago. In Germany, Switzerland and other countries it is considered legitimate grounds for divorce although the laws vary in important particulars in each country.

ST. LOUIS COUPLE CELEBRATE THEIR 65th ANNIVERSARY

St. Louis, Mo., May 6. — Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Rombauer celebrated their sixty-fifth wedding anniversary this week. Mr. Rombauer is 92 years old and his wife is 93.

The two met in St. Louis as refugees in the Hungarian revolution of 1849. Mrs. Rombauer was the widow of Count Theodore Dembinski, a major in the Hungarian forces under Gen. Louis Kossuth, had followed him through the campaigns of the war, and fled with him in Kossuth's party to the last cause to Turkey. After she and Count Dembinski came to America she returned on a false passport to visit her family in Hungary, was detected by an Austrian spy, and spent six months in military prison.

Rombauer, a lieutenant in the Hungarian army, had been captured and held a prisoner a year before he was released. He had frozen his hands and feet in a night retreat in which many of his compatriots, who became exhausted, were frozen to death. He served in the Civil war as colonel of the First Missouri Reserves, which engaged in hazardous skirmishing warfare in Arkansas and Missouri.

Colonel Rombauer was president of the board of assessors, a member of the school board and the school library board. In 1909 he published a history of the Civil war in Missouri. In spite of their ages and the hardships they have gone through, both are unusually active.

GULLS AND DUCKS IN MINOT ZOO

Minot, N. D., May 6.—The director of the Milwaukee zoo has presented to the Minot zoo a pair of Herring gulls and three Muscovy ducks. The latter are queer birds. The drake has a body as large as a goose with a head something like a turkey. The colors are greenish-black with white markings. They also have small crests and make a peculiar grunting noise. They often roost like chickens.

The local zoo has also received a pair of wild black ducks as an addition to the already excellent wild fowl display. The ducks will be placed in the outside enclosure within the next week.

Wild elephants have repeatedly torn up all pipe lines in Sumatra.

COMMUNIST OPPOSITION DEVELOPING

Groups, In Several Instances,
Surprised Moscow By Coming Out In Open

Moscow, May 6.—Opposition to policies laid down by the majority of the Communist party has become more open and daring in Russia recently than at any time since iron-handed methods were inaugurated in 1918.

Groups, extremely small numerically and perhaps devoid of any power to change the trend of things, which formerly aired their grievances, if at all, in secret meetings, and were promptly voted down, have recently, in several instances, surprised Moscow by coming right out in the open. Principal among these was the group of 24 persons headed by A. Shilapnikoff, of the metal workers group, who, disappointed with the return of capitalism and the apparent abandonment of Communism, dared to take their grievances to the Third International. They were promptly sat upon and threatened with expulsion from the Communist party unless they obeyed discipline.

The two Mensheviks and two Social Revolutionists in the Moscow Soviet, generally timid folks, weighted down by the thousand or more Communist or "non partisan" fellow members of the Soviet, plucked up courage enough the other day to speak right out in a big public meeting.

They merely wanted to change the wording of a resolution against the Third International but the fact that they stood up and voted against the scheduled plan, despite the hooting and jeering of the majority and in the presence of Leon Trotsky, War Minister, and dozens of foreign journalists and diplomats attending the meeting seemed something new in Moscow.

BEARDED GRAIN BEST YIELDER

In Recent Comparisons This
Wheat Showed Marked
Superiority

Fargo, N. D., May 6.—That bearded grain is a rather better yielder than non-bearded grain was the conclusion indicated by L. R. Waldron, plant breeder of the agricultural college in a discussion before the North Dakota academy of science meeting here. He began his talk with an acknowledgment that the beards which work their way to the skin through shirts and overalls, are not a pleasant thing for the shocker to contend with; he admitted that the matter was a hard one to decide, but he ended by citing several cases which seemed to give the bearded wheat the advantage.

"Recently in Delaware it has been found in a comparison of over 30 varieties of groups, bearded and non-bearded that the bearded wheat showed in general a marked superiority," said Mr. Waldron in his report. "Over a ten year test the bearded wheats outyielded the non-bearded by 3.3 bushels per acre. In the poorer wheat years the bearded sorts were more markedly ahead of the non-bearded wheats than in the better years."

"The bearded wheats seem to be more resistant to disease than the smooth wheats and the difference was responsible largely for difference in yield. The bearded wheats seem better able to resist scab, blight and other similar diseases."

"The speaker has made crosses of Marquis and Kota wheat and in the third generation from the cross there are a number of families which contain both bearded and smooth plants. In the case of a large number of heads one should be able to determine with considerable exactness whether yield is affected by the presence of beards. This has been done and the results show that when other things are equalized the bearded wheat outyields the smooth wheat by about eight percent. The difference is not marked when applied to one acre but if it were applied to the entire wheat crop of North Dakota it would run into a handsome figure."

GUARDS GRIFT

Mej. Gen. Sean McKean of the Irish Republican Army revolver in hand, keeps an eye open for trouble while Arthur Griffith, president of the Dail Eireann, addresses a street crowd at Sligo.

Mr. White began to breed horses twenty years ago after returning on the advice of physicians to his native home in Virginia from St. Louis, where he had been active on the grain exchange. The physicians had given up hope for his recovery, but the outdoor work incident to his interest in horse breeding added in his recovery.

The particular animal which led to the award of the decoration is the stallion Lat, bred by Mr. White and exhibited in Chicago at the last International Live Stock Show. Lat was declared grand champion Percheron stallion and one of his sons reserve grand champion, giving Mr. White a record said to be unprecedented in the history of the show. Mr. White is a member of the advisory board of the Horse Association of America.

CANDLE STICK CRAZE SWEEPS OVER COUNTRY

Minneapolis, Minn., May 6.—A candle stick craze is sweeping the country, according to statements recently made at the state jeweler's convention and concurred in by the largest jewelry concerns here. Men prominent in the business declare there are more candle-sticks in American homes today than when the tallow spindle was the mainstay of home lighting.

In many of the homes, it is said, every source of illumination, from the low light in the bedroom to the large living room fixture is in the form of either candle-sticks or candle-effect standards. Candle brackets with electric light bulbs around the rooms, or as adornments on dresser, buffet and table, are very common, it is said.

Sensing the popularity of the candlesticks in modern homes, it is said the companies manufacturing candles have turned out special designs and makes of the tallow article to still further add to the ornamentation. "One of the most staple articles" is the way one jeweler characterized the candlestick line.

COUNTRY CLUB OPENS SEASON

The Bismarck Town and Country club opened the season yesterday afternoon and last evening with the most successful gathering the club has had in years. Beginning with the first day program and concluding with a dance in the evening, the club was visited by an unusually large number of members, many of them new members.

The Arbor Day program at 4 o'clock was featured by the planting of trees in honor of the club members who had been in the service during the World War. Governor Nestos made a short talk upon Arbor Day at the planting.

A basket supper was held. Baskets of food brought by members of the club were auctioned off, and the purchaser ate dinner with the donor of the basket. The sale was successful. The dance in the evening was attended by 60 couples, among them several guests from Mandan. Music was furnished by Wagner's orchestra. The dining room was open during the dance.

The Country Club is opening its season a month earlier than last year to permit the golf tournaments to get under way. Some of them were not finished last year. It is also planned to hold dances at frequent intervals during the summer.

BRIDAL ACCESSORIES ARE VARIED AND LOVELY

When the trousseau resolves to a mere matter of accessories the bride of 1922 may let her fancy rove to her heart's delight.

Shops are full of clever things with which to give just the right finishing touch to frock or suit. Gloves are, of course, an item of major importance. Even the plainest little mouse of a bride will have at least three pairs in her wedding outfit, while the girl who can afford it will have perhaps five or six.

There should be a pair for the going away suit. Gray and beige are equally smart for suit wear and the cuffs which pull up over the tight sleeves of the jacket are often touched with orchid, rose or a deeper selection.

There should be one pair of dark gloves for more ordinary wear and of course the long ones needed for dinner gowns and dancing frocks.

Tapestry is quite the newest purse fabric and the flat envelope seems to be the favored shape though beaded bags in a variety of shapes and colors are being shown.

As for handkerchiefs—of course the average trousseau budget wouldn't stretch over a list which included many Rose Point handkerchiefs, but there simply must be one or two of them, if never again for the rest of one's life!

There should be a very generous supply of dainty handkerchiefs in the wedding outfit—lucky is the bride whose girl friends think in terms of kerchiefs when they wonder what kind of a shower to give for her!

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER

(Established 1873)

DIRT-CHEAP

Somewhere in your neighborhood they are building a house. Go over there, pick a piece of shining metal out of a keg, and the carpenter will tell you it's a "10-penny nail." Other nails are 20-penny, 30, 40 and so on.

"Penny," in connection with nails, is a measure of size.

Originally, it designated the price per hundred. Thus a "10-penny" nail meant one that cost 10 cents a hundred, wholesale.

The name has lost its old meaning, because today you can buy the nails dirt-cheap. Yet years ago the price was not considered high, for previously buildings were put together with hard wooden pegs. Maybe you've noticed them when an ancient house was torn down.

In the name of the "10-penny nail," you have the key to the whole scheme of modern life—cheap prices, made possible by quantity production.

Nearly all of man's important productive inventions were discovered within the last 200 years.

For thousands of years before that, human muscles were in a general sense the only important machinery.

Caligula, spendthrift Roman emperor, at his banquets served tongues of birds, brought from great distances by relays of the swiftest runners, at tremendous expense.

There is no demand today for bird tongues to tickle the palate. If there were, this ancient delicacy would be put up in big canning plants or rushed in refrigerator cars by fast express.

The price would be extremely low, compared with Caligula's time. For instance, a few cents will buy you a package of dates brought from Arabia, a box of leeches nuts from China or a tin of crabmeat from Japan.

Wouldn't it be interesting to turn the clock ahead 200 years and see what the steady expansion of quantity production leads to by then?

It is not at all improbable that an airplane some day may sell for a few dollars. This may seem ridiculous, but no more so than a suggestion that a watch might some day sell for $1, would have seemed only a few centuries ago when time-pieces were so prohibitively high-priced that only kings and the very wealthy could afford them.

Expensive luxuries of today are the cheap necessities of tomorrow. Standard of living steadily advances—but only by increased production.

HAUNTING TUNES

What has become of "Over There," "Tipperary" and the other martial tunes that were so popular during the war? You rarely hear them any more. When you do, chances are, some one yells out to turn the record over or put on some jazz.

With Memorial Day coming, there will be a revival of "Dixie," "Marching Through Georgia" and other songs that call up in memory the Civil War.

Musicians are wondering what particular song Americans will always associate with the World War.

The interesting possibility looms, that they will not remember any song in this connection—unless it's written later.

The popular song during the Revolutionary War was "Yankee Doodle." After nearly a century and a half it's "still going strong."

"Hail, Columbia" was first sung April 25, 1798, by a young actor named Fox, in Philadelphia's Chestnut street theater. While not exactly a war song, it was in the nature of a reaction from the war, expressing young America's exuberance at its independence.

In 1814 the spirit of the War of 1812 saturated the blood and brain of Francis Scott Key. Afire with militant patriotism, he wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The Civil War left the country with a whole flood of songs, some them sure-fire today, others good on occasion.

The Spanish-American War dug up the old timers, including "Hot Time In the Old Town Tonight." This gem, however, dates back to the Chicago fire, which it commemorated. The war with Spain produced no song typical of its period—possibly because so many of the singers died of malaria, "yellow jack" and embalmed beef.

Maybe some one, later on, will burst forth with the song that Americans always will associate with their part in the World War.

The chances, however, are against it, for the national complex is to keep the war buried in memory.

It is dawning on people that modern war is nothing to sing about. Which is a good thing.

War is being stripped of its band-playing, catchy melodies, flag waving and other hypnotic devices of organized militarism.

Get rid of war's glitter and glamor, expose it in its hideous nakedness—and "drumming up a war" will not be so easy for the diplomats. That is the tendency—not only in the United States, but all over the world.

SWINDLES

A familiar old rat is dragged into the open again. Congressman Denison, advocating his national "blue sky law," says Americans lose $500,000,000 a year on worthless securities.

It is a deplorable large sum, and any effort to lessen it is commendable.

However, based on the combined income of all Americans in normal times, $500,000,000 of plunder yearly means that, on the average, swindlers get only $1 out of each $70 of our income.

We are swindled out of many times that much by the trickery of some so-called "legitimate" business transactions. Interest centers on the deliberate swindler because he doesn't give us a run for our money.

DIKI-DIKI

Diki-Diki, prince of Ubah Island in the Philippines, says he will give his fortune to any girl of his size who will marry him.

Since it's a considerable fortune, some young ladies will be interested in his size. Diki-Diki is three feet four inches tall. He would prefer not being a dwarf.

If he could have been born a generation later, medical science would be able to adjust the pituitary gland in his brain, thus making him of normal height. Giants and dwarfs are pituitary freaks.

The boy who grows so fast he can never get enough to eat is animated by an extremely active pituitary gland.

MAKES FOR DEEP ROOTS

The grudging spring makes deep roots and hardy plants. The idea, allegorically, should comfort progressives who are discouraged by the reactionary swing of the pendulum.

It appears personally. Hard obstacles, early in a man's career, give him deep roots and build up his fighting strength for later battles.

Great careers start early in life, as preparation. When John D. Rockefeller was a bookkeeper working for $35 a month, he was learning to manage and finance his giant business of after-years.

Like doctors in medical college, much that we are doing now will not be "cashed in on" until later.

1922 THRILL

A young couple are married in an airplane, half a mile above New York City. The plane carries a wireless. Radio fans, at great distances, "listen in" on the ceremony.

You reflect that you live in a blase age, with people compelled to resort to higher mechanical science for thrills.

Yet the middle-aged people recall October 19, 1874, when the first balloon wedding took place above Cincinnati. Mary Walsh married Charles M. Colton, Rev. H. B. Jeffries officiating.

Times haven't changed much, fundamentally. We do the same old things over and over, merely using improved mechanical devices. There were more thrills and dangers in a balloon marriage in 1874 than an airplane marriage in 1922.

CREATOR OF THE RAMBLER ROSE

Michael H. Walsh, who died Monday at his home in Woods Hole at the age of 75, is credited with originating the Rambler rose. The popular success of his creations was so immense that he is entered as few men have done the aspect of the world—in the time of roses, at any rate. There are people who have a finicky distaste for this favorite variety, but the popular vote is against them, and in June the Ramblers, crimson and white, dominate the countryside so completely that it is hard to realize their modernity; in such a setting one would look for the cavaliers on horseback and unbobbed maidens beloved by the romantic painters of rustic beauty in more idyllic days.

Nor have the experts been slow to recognize the value of this veteran horticulturist's work. Among his most successful varieties were the Lady Gay and Minnehaha varieties, and those brought him awards from many societies at home and abroad, including the gold medal of the American Rose society and the London Agricultural society's highest award. He lived among his roses and was at work preparing them for the spring budding when he was prostrated by the attack of influenza which caused his death a week later. His life work will be remembered when the roses bloom.—Springfield Republican.

Governor Nestos Asks Churches, American Legion and Auxiliaries To Observe Mothers' Day, May 14

Paying full and complete tribute to the motherhood of the nation, Governor R. A. Nestos, by proclamation has called to the citizens of North Dakota the home makers of the nation in one day set aside to them for national remembrance, Sunday, May 14th.

The governor's proclamation follows:

PROCLAMATION

MOTHERS' DAY

The thought of Mother's Day appeals to humanity as nothing else does.

Whether at home, receiving her constant care, or away in foreign lands, followed by her daily prayers, the thought of Mother's Day will keep a man true to his ideals, firm in his purposes and more self-sacrificing in his service than anything else.

She has been the guiding hand during the days of youth, and as the twigs bent under her tender care, the tree is most likely to be inclined.

Were her influence lost in shaping the character of our men and women, most of what is of value in our civilization would also disappear.

As the builder of the home, she shapes the character of the community, the course of the state, the destiny of the nation.

It is well that once a year we should devote a day to the pleasant task of reviving the memory of our childhood days, the thought of Mother, the appreciation of her sacrifice, and to resolve anew to live true to the ideals she taught and exemplified in her own life.

Especially do we remember upon this day the suffering and the prayerful and devoted care of the mothers of those splendid men who crossed the seas to risk their own lives, that liberty might live.

I do further earnestly ask that those who are away from Mother, on that day write letters to her, expressive of their love, and their appreciation of the loving care by which she moulded their character, shaped their lives and, despite intervening time and space, will guard her beloved son or daughter with her constant and earnest prayers.

Called at the State Capitol in the city of Bismarck, this third day of May.

By the Governor: R. A. NESTOS, Governor.

Thos. Hall, Secretary of State.

Convinced that it is of great value to perpetuate the beautiful custom of observing Mothers' Day for the purpose of especially remembering and honoring the mothers of men

I, R. A. Nestos, Governor of the State of North Dakota do hereby proclaim and set apart and urge all congregations on that day to arrange services especially dedicated to the memory of Mother, that as far as possible we wear a flower fragrant to her memory, that the American Legion and the Legion Auxiliaries be invited to join in the services and participate in the exercises, and that flags be displayed upon the homes, public buildings and other suitable places, as an expression of the love and reverence in which the citizenship of our commonwealth hold the name and memory of Mother, and in recognition of her influence in inculcating the great principles that make for personal character and national strength.

SUNDAY, MAY 14TH

I do further earnestly ask that those who are away from Mother, on that day write letters to her, expressive of their love, and their appreciation of the loving care by which she moulded their character, shaped their lives and, despite intervening time and space, will guard her beloved son or daughter with her constant and earnest prayers.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

King Courageous, the real king of the Korsknotts and the Diddyvers, spoke kindly to Nancy and Nick. "My dears," said he, "it is due to your bravery and wits that I have been released from the spell that bound me. And thanks to you, also, my son, the prince, and his sweetheart, Princess Therna, have been made happy, for they will be married."

"Now I shall give you your choice of three wishes. First, if you so desire, you may stay here and live happily with me in the Castle of Mirrors, which is my real home. Nick shall have a horse that shines like gold and goes like the wind, and Nancy shall have a pony that shines like silver and goes like lightning. You shall go to six movies a week and have a hundred lollipops a day."

"Second, if you would rather have it so, you may ride for a year and a day in my noble ship and see the wonders of the world."

"Third, if you so wish it, one of you may rule over the Diddyvers and the other may rule over the Korsknotts while my son and I are away making war on Twelve Toes the Sorcerer and all his wicked relatives. Besides, I must decide what to do with these two imposters, King Indig and King Verdo. They, too, must be punished."

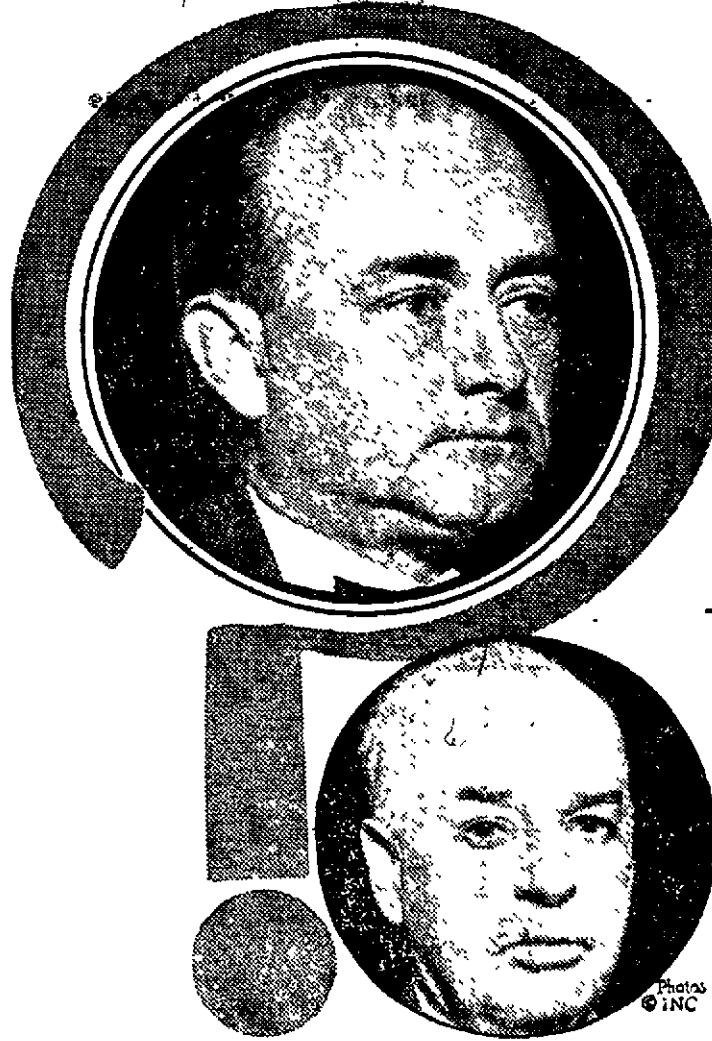

"Do we have to take one of the three wishes, or may we make a wish of our own?" asked Nancy.

"Anything you like, my dear," smiled King Courageous.

"Then," said Nancy brightly, "please don't punish anybody, and let Nick and me go home in our Green Shoes. We had to walk here over the Seven Mountains and Seven Valleys, but when we go back we may just make a wish, the Fairy Queen says, 'well, well, well!'"

"Well, well, well!" said the king kindly. "What kind hearts you have!"

WHAT WILL THE VERDICT BE?

Judge Claire C. Edwards (above) is in the unique position of being the umpire of law in the trial of Governor Len Small of Illinois (below) on trial at Waukegan, charged with misappropriation of funds.

It shall be as you wish. Goodby, little ones.

"You have been very brave and made us all very happy. When we have conquered Twelve Toes and broken his magic the prince and I shall return. He will marry the princess and rule over one of my kingdoms. We shall end our days in happiness and peace. Now goodby, again." And he kissed them both.

TODAY'S WORD

Today's word is LEGATION.

It's pronounced—le-ga-shun, with accent on the second syllable.

It means the place of business or official residence of a diplomatic minister at a foreign court or seat of government; in common parlance used in distinction from "embassy," the official residence of an ambassador, or minister of the highest rank. An embassy is a legation, since an ambassador is a minister; but a legation is not necessarily an embassy, inasmuch as it may not be occupied by a minister of an ambassador's rank.

It comes from—legate, which in turn is from Latin "legatus," to deputize, the minister being deputized to represent his government.

It's used like this—"The foreign powers have sent marines to Peking to guard their legations against attack."

BASEBALL FANS TO DECIDE FATE OF TEAM SUNDAY

Meeting Called by President of Association to Determine Action to be Taken

Whether or not Bismarck will have a real baseball team this year probably will be settled at a meeting to be held Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. at the American Legion hall.

O. W. Roberts, president of the baseball association, today called the meeting. Mr. Roberts urges the attendance of every business man and fan interested in seeing a baseball team in the field this year. Unless some concrete plan is presented at the meeting efforts to put a team in the field probably will be dropped.

Some fans gathered last night at Elks hall for confab on the baseball situation and today the general meeting is called. The failure to make a nice profit on the boxing carnival held in the Auditorium recently put a crimp in the efforts of the leaders of the association to pay off all the debts incurred during last season. A nice profit was made on the first boxing carnival which reduced the deficit materially.

The baseball holding company has a great deal of money invested in the baseball past here. The value of the park represents assets much greater than the liabilities, so that the baseball association can be easily put upon a good running basis if it is generally desired to have a good team, according to leaders.

It is up to the fans. They will decide Sunday.

OFFER DEMPSEY A HUGE PURSE

Paris, May 6.—(By the A. P.)—A price of $490,000, 75 per cent to go to the winner and 25 per cent to the loser, was offered Jack Dempsey, world champion heavyweight boxer, for a return match with Georges Carpentier, to be held in Pershing stadium, near Paris, sometime in the autumn.

He also offered the champion $10,000 a week to sign a six-weeks contract to appear in the largest music hall in Paris.

BASEBALL CLUBS GETTING ACTION

Linton, May 6.—The various ball clubs that will have membership in the proposed Emmons-Logan County League are getting busy earlier than usual this year. Hazelton has been getting in shape for a couple of weeks, and have played a couple of practice games. Linton and Strasburg players have been getting out this week, and Linton will go to Strasburg Sunday next for a game. Neither team will have its regular line-up, but there will be plenty of fun for the fans, nevertheless. Present plans provide that J. A. Lang, grandpa of base ball in this community, will be twirler for Linton. In a week or so, Louis Angell, our regular pitcher, will be on hand. The league schedule will start two weeks from Sunday, according to the present plans, the schedule being only tentatively outlined as yet.

TWO PITCHERS WITH GREAT FUTURE

PITCHING IS BIG PROBLEM IN BASEBALL

All Major League Managers Would Relish More Pitching—George Uhle and Roy Wilkinson Have Great Chance to Star This Year

BY BILLY EVANS
Pitching is a problem that confronts practically every major league manager.

A good many of the major league leaders are pretty well satisfied with their ball clubs, pitching excepted.

The lament of a majority of the managers is, "If our club only had a little more pitching we would make lots of trouble."

John McGraw of the New York Giants and Miller Huggins are about the only two managers who seem pretty well satisfied with their pitching staff.

Despite this McGraw is carrying a number of recruits who have promise. Likewise Huggins is hopeful that Lefty O'Doul and a right-hander by the name of Murray will be of help in the campaign of 1922.

Pitching is a peculiar proposition. Sometimes a youngster who appears to have great promise is a long time arriving. Occasionally some pitcher little considered develops into a star inside of a season.

In the American League today there are two pitchers who have every chance to reach stardom. I have in mind George Uhle of the Cleveland club and Wilkinson of the Chicago White Sox.

The season before Uhle joined the Cleveland club I saw him work in a game in the fall of the year against a team composed of big leaguers.

Uhle Has Great Chance
Inside of a couple of innings I made up my mind that Uhle was a real big league prospect. Before the game was over I learned he was the property of the Cleveland club.

I ventured the prediction that the sand-lotter inside of three years would be a sensation in the American League. While Uhle hasn't quite lived up to my prophecy he has demonstrated that he is a great pitcher.

I haven't weakened on him in the least. Unquestionably there is still some little thing lacking. One of these days he is going to find himself, correct that fault, whatever it may be, and then look out!

A pitcher with the speed, fast breaking curve, nice change of pace and free delivery that Uhle uses,

YANKS TO GET NEW STADIUM

New York, May 6.—Construction of a new stadium for the New York American League baseball club, a short distance from its present "home" at the Polo grounds, was begun today, a few minutes after Colonel Ruppert and Houston, club owners, signed the contract.

If the Yankees win the American League championship this year the stadium may be used for the world series, officials of the construction company said, but they added that their speed would be determined somewhat by the standing and prospects of the ball club.

The eventual capacity of the stadium which will have a three deck stand surrounding the playing field, will be 35,000, greater than that of any other ball park.

Cost Three Million
The total cost, when finished, will be about $3,000,000, the site having cost $600,000.

The park will be in the shape of a horse shoe similar to the polo grounds, extending 700 feet along 157th Street, and 500 feet on both prongs. The distance from the batter's box to center field will be 420 feet, and from the box to right and left fields, 257 feet, making it more difficult than most parks in which to hit home runs.

That the big league brand of baseball is played just the same as in the Texas League, watch his smoke.

"Rigney is fast, can go equally well to either his left or right, and has plenty of nerve."

"Unless I am a poor judge of ball players this young man is one of the best infield recruits that has broken into the major leagues in years."

If Rigney comes through as Cobb believes he will, Detroit will have a mighty fine infield before the season is over.

LaBles at first and Bobby Jones at third are both great players who have already proved their worth. They can field, hit, throw and are fast. In fact, do everything well.

Cutshaw at second is a veteran player who has slowed up considerably, yet he will be of great aid in schooling Rigney.

do everything in tip-top fashion he would be yanked out and given a seat on the bench for a couple of weeks.

The failure of his successor would again give Jones a chance and he would usually go through the same procedure. "It was a case of in again and out again with Jones."

Ty Cobb had faith in Jones. When he took over the Detroit club he told Bobby he had no rival for the position, that he was the regular third baseman.

That seemed to be the only thing Jones needed, assurance that he was a member of the Tigers in good standing. It supplied him with the needed confidence.

From that day Jones has been a real star. His play around third was brilliant all last season. He batted .303. In the opening series with Cleveland he fairly sparkled on defense.

"Jones has developed into a remarkable third baseman," says Umpire Billy Evans. "No third baseman in either major league can cover more ground."

"Jones is a quick starter, fast on his feet, and can go to his right or left with equal ease. He is sure death on balls hit down the third base line, one of the most difficult plays a third sacker is called upon to make."

"Jones is also blessed with a strong, accurate throwing arm. This enables him to knock down hard hits and get his man on drives that the ordinary third sacker would be content to hold to a single."

"Jones has certainly arrived. He deserves to be classed with the great third basemen of the majors."

IF THIS PLAY COMES UP

Here's Your Decision

If with no one on the bases the pitcher while not in his legal position delivers the ball to the batsman, the umpire shall rule it a ball whether or not it goes over the plate. If there is a runner or runners on the bases, such an act is construed as a balk.

If, however, the batsman strikes at such an illegally delivered ball, it counts either for a strike or whatever play may follow.

When You Score A Ball Game

REMEMBER—

If in the last half of the final inning or extra innings with the winning run on base, the batsman drives home that run, he shall be given credit for as many bases on his hit as the runner who scores the winning run in advance; except, however, that in cases of the batsman hitting the ball over the fence and it is ruled a fair ball by the umpire, he shall receive credit for a home run and all runners on the bases shall score.

JONES NOW RATED REAL STAR

BOBBY JONES NOW RATED REAL STAR

Who is the best third baseman in the American League?

A year ago, in considering that question, Bobby Jones of the Detroit club wouldn't have been in the running.

Today, Bobby Jones stands out as one of the most likely candidates for the honor Jones has arrived with a vengeance.

Always the possessor of great natural ability it took Jones four or five years to find himself. Possibly his failure to show his true worth more quickly was due to lack of opportunity.

When Jones came to the Detroit club Hughey Jennings was manager. Jennings, while he knew Jones had great ability, was of the opinion that he lacked a certain something, and never gave him a real chance.

Jones would break into the lineup for a week or so and if he failed to
